Let's Keep It On The Level

It is quite apparent that Gov. Rhodes' nonew taxes policy is extremely disturbing- not to taxpayers but to politicians.

The Democrats, in general, and Frazier Reams Jr., the governor's opponent in November, in particular, can think up all kinds of ways for the state to spend more money, but all the new or expanded services they recommend require greater income, and, not so incidentally, more taxes.

It is true that greater expenditures for education and mental health, to mention only two fields which have become political targets, will be needed

The philosophical difference between the two candidates is this: Mr. Reams would impose some kind of new taxes, perhaps even a state income tax.

Gov. Rhodes would keep the state on a sound fiscal basis by which he has turned an inherited $80 million deficit into a $20 million surplus and would expand tax revenues by enticing new industry and creating new jobs for many of those now on welfare rolls.

THERE ARE plenty of areas in state government that lend themselves to the easy expenditure of more money. The difficult thing is to develop a source of new revenue. One would accomplish it by expanding the state's economy, the other by levying new taxes.

Hardly a Democrat speaks out today without firing a blast at the governor's insistence on holding the tax line

But now something new has been added: Mr. Reams has said, in effect, that the Re publican tax policy is a phony

He deplores highway, educational and recreational bond issues as a burden on future generations in violation of the pledge against

He deplores the sharp increase in real estate taxes, citing his own property assessments which he says have risen from 18 to 33 mills during Gov. Rhodes' 31/2 years in office.

MR. REAMS is a young, personable, and energetic man, but he is sadly lacking in issues in this campaign, and his statement on taxes

What he overlooks is that Gov. Rhodes cannot be held to account for constitutional amendments that provided the state with some $1.3 billion in capital funds. He proposed them. to be sure, but the General Assembly placed the issues on the ballot, and the people of Ohio approved them.

In the case of real estate taxes, we should like to remind Mr. Reams that there is only one way his millage (which incidentally is not a state tax) can be increased: The people of his subdivision must vote it outside the 10mill limitation.

Now, if the Democratic candidate wants to dispute the judgment of the people of his subdivision and of Ohio, that is his right.

But please spare Gov. Rhodes the criticism Mr. Reams so artfully misdirects.

Strongest Bid For Victory

The other side of the war in Viet Nam, often overlooked or dismissed as of secondary importance, has come into plain view.

The forces fighting the United States and its allies are more desirous of all-out victory than the United States is. They have everything to gain and nothing to lose by winning decisively. The United States, on the other hand, risks the possibility of enlarging the war if it makes an all-out effort.

This infuriates U.S. "hawks" who do not share their government's distaste for the prospect of fighting a major war in Asia by drawing in the Chinese People's Republic as happened in Korea. But distaste for Chinese intervention is a major element in government

If a limited war against an undeclared enemy in Viet Nam is unpopular, what would a major war against a declared enemy, with mass mobilization and long death lists, do to the popularity rating of the Johnson administration? It most assuredly would do what the Korean War did to the Truman administration when

Two of them who made the try before, both governors, Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, took themselves out of presidential consideration for all time, or so they said.

The only other Republicans who now look like the most likely prospects - Michigan's Gov. George Romney and former Vice President Richare M. Nixon - aren't talking about it.

At the moment Romney is trying to get reelected governor and Nixon isn't saying what his hopes are. He just keeps on making speeches and keeping himself in the public eye. Johnson, who made a stunning record getting his "Great Society" programs through Congress in 1965, looks a bit bogged down in 1966. Congress isn't responding as it used to. With

The Russians are making a big thing of pictures showing deposed authoritarian leaders casting ballots.

The Ballot Casters

They not only released a photo of Nikita Khrushchev voting for candidates to the Supreme Soviet last Sunday but one of old "Iron Pants" Molotov, who was giving the Free World the shakes before Khrushchev became famed and feared.

Moreover, they showed Molotov walking arm in arm with Marshal Semyon M. Budenny, another old-timer.

This is like the practice of taking pictures of former political powers casting ballots on election day in this country-but there is a vital

Russians regard it as a novelty when a deposed authoritarian is allowed to live, let alone to appear in public and vote in one of the Communist state's one-party elections.

It signifies their way of doing things in politics has become so stabilized it no longer is necessary to get rid of deposed leaders with a bullet in the skull. Moreover, it is not even necessary to deport fallen leaders to some remote place where they will be out of touch with people who might dream up schemes to restore them to positions

Small wonder the Russians make a big thing of pictures showing this giant stride away from absolutism. It's a public relations gimmick They want to improve their image, which can stand improvement.

And because they always want to change it to be more like the Anglo-Saxon image and less like Genghis Khan that some of us feel sure time is the worst enemy of Marxism.

Things have changed a lot since the time when the only way to get rid of a Russian authoritarian was for other authoritarians to pop him into eternity with a bullet in the head. Give them enough time and they may have a 22nd amendment to their constitution, too. That's the one in ours that says no U.S. presi-

It nipped authoritarianism in the bud.

New Version Of An Old Symbol

Strikes Cripple 'Copter War

By Victor Riesel

IT WAS a grim late show. But it happened one night

In one corner of the Pentagon, the generals were pressuring their supply and production specialists to get up more and more helicopters

In a far-off Viet Nam rain forest, the "wet" and sweat were being cut by flaming sheets of Viet Cong machine gunfire as helicopters pulled up the torn and wounded of Bill (Lonely End) Carpenter's battalion

Stateside, pickets sauntered in front of helicopter and Victor Riesel "whirlybird" supply parts plants, crucial installations, in Boston and Niagara Falls suburbs.

Pentagon specialists pleaded with their own labor relations specialists. The specialists pleaded with and pounded at the local labor leaders. The pickets continued to saunter.

Production was dead-as dead as some of Carpenter's men away off there in the rain

It's reasonable to ask why men, safe and secure on the home front, strike at the very hour the Viet Con strikes the Carpenters and all the lonely kids over there.

THE PUBLIC SHOULD KNOW. At the General Electric jet engine (for helicopters) plant in Lynn, Mass., the ladies and gentlemen pulled a simple squeeze play

Last year the leader of Local 201, International Union of Electrical Workers, told the GE executives that final jet engine testers in the Flight Propulsion Division should get higher pay than the accessory and control testers. The company analyzed the costs and skills and work of the testers. Finally GE agreed. On Dec. 20 the final engine workers got higher pay than the others. Everybody appeared happy. That is, until after Christmas.

Then a movement began to get the accessory and control testers more pay to run about even with the final engine testers. The union made such a demand.

The company countered by saying, look, last year you yourselves said the final engine testers should get more than the accessory and control people. GE held fast. On May 18 some 65 workers walked out of the Flight Propulsion Division. Slowly the stoppages spread.

THE OTHER NIGHT the pickets hit the entire plant. It went down-meaning that the Medium Turbine Dept. and the Direct Energy Conversion Division were paralyzed, too. And the latter produces the fuel cells-the energy supply-for the Gemini capsules.

It matters not if the local leaders and rank and file believe they had philosphical trade union justification for such a strike.

It matters now that the insiders know of the intrapower structure feuds and the off-the-wall (as the teen-agers say) militants which affect rank-and-file sentiment there.

be eternity to youngsters over there, that something the Pentagon specialists belive to be a matter of extreme urgency has been struck. If it has not yet reached Lynn's rank and file, there really is evidence that there is a war on.

Certainly the war news must have reached the educated and extremely skilled employes of the Wheatfield, N.Y., Bell Aerosystems Co., which is the other strike that happened one

THERE THE ISSUE was pensions. The union, Local 205 of the American Federation of Technical Engineers, had signed a no-strike contract.

Pentagon people tell me the plant there produces spare parts for helicopters destined for Viet Nam or already in service; and parts for three Navy air cushion vehicles, also war front materiel; also moon project supplies for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and sections of Air Force Agena rocket engines.

The union went out after strong arguments over the reopening of the contract on pensions, improved benefits, etc.-disregarding the nostrike clause in the contract, which runs until mid-1968.

So the no-strike contract clause seemed to mean little. That night the pickets sauntered. The Pentagon and William Simkins' harassed staff appealed to the union's national president. But still the pickets sauntered.

Thus that night more than 12,000 workers on critical parts and engines destined for the kind of helicopters which mean so much to the de tinies of all the Carpenters over there, were "on the bricks" in front of the Massachusetts and Western New York installations.

IN THE CAPITOL a Pentagon specialist said wearily: "We're trying to get as many helicopters as possible. It's causing us great concern. These strikes are brutalizing us. They are paralyzing production vital to the supply. I cannot and should not tell you more.

It happened one night-on the home front and in a far-off rain forest where "Lonely End" was calling the signals not to protect himself but to safeguard that home front.

Odd Facts

In all the seas of the world together there are about 830 million tons of gold, worth today about 929 trillion dollars. However, it costs more to take gold from sea water than the gold is worth. More than five million cubic yards of water have to be treated to procure a halfounce of gold.

Confusion

By David Lawrence

Supermarkets And The Court

Contradictions in the news are sometimes significant. One branch of the government says that the poor are paying more for food than are other people in the same town or city, and that something should be done to encourage the chain stores and supermarkets to do business in low-income neighborhoods. But six justices of the Supreme Court of the United States have just decreed that a merger of two chains doing only 7½ per cent of the total sales in the Los Angeles area is a violation of the anti-trust laws and constitutes an "in-David Lawrence cipient" monopoly. The Bureau of Labor statistics sent out its agents to do comparative shopping in poor and higher - income neighborhoods in six big cities, and has just made public a report urging that special steps be taken to persuade the chain store companies to open up more supermarkets in the low-income sections.

A check-up of the prices of 18 commodities showed that the poor are being subjected to higher costs. The chains, of course, are reluctant to enter the poor areas with individual stores which would make little profit. But Mrs. Esther Peterson, President Johnson's special assistant for consumer affairs, declares that "each food chain should immediately reexamine its expansion plans, on a city-bycity basis, in the light of the Bureau of Labor Statistics Study," and says also that, if supermarkets can't make a profit in poor neighborhoods, the government should consider taking "positive steps" to improve the situation.

ALL OF THIS is surprising after one reads the opinion handed down by the Supreme Court on May 31, which reversed a lower court that had upheld a merger in California. The combined sales of the two chains amounted to only 71/2 per cent of the total of the retail groceries sold in the Los Angeles market but the high court said that the consolidation was nevertheless a violation of the anti-merger law, and that it was therefore prohibited.

Justices Stewart and Harlan, who dissented, noted that the court had previously declared that every corporate acquisition should be judged in the light of the contemporary economic context of the industry concerned, and then added that the court has turned its back on basic principles and on all the decisions of recent years that have followed those principles. The dissenting opinion said.

'No action by this court can resurrect the old single - line Los Angeles Food stores that have been run over by the automobile or obligerated by the freeway. The transformation of American society since the second World War has not completely shelved these specialty stores, but it has relegated them to a much less central role in our food economy.

"Today's dominant enterprise in food retailing is the supermarket. Accessible to the housewife's automobile from a wide radius, it houses under a single roof the entire food requirements of the family. Only through the sort of reactionary philosophy that this court long ago rejected in the due process clause area can the court read into the legislative history of Section 7 its attempt to make the automobile stand still, to mold the food economy of today into the market patterns of another era.

THE QUESTION of whether any monopoly actually was threatened is discussed in the dissenting opinion, which argued that the top 20 firms in the Los Angeles area have a combined share of only 57 per cent of the market.

The number of chain-store firms has risen in the area, particularly among those of small size. Also, the merger which the majority of the court struck down happened to be between two local concerns, largely family - owned, each of which had less than 5 per cent of the market.

Justices Stewart and Harlan pointed out, too, that independent stores can grow in number and size if they become members of some of the co-operative - buying organizations that are now being formed. Memberships in those groups are unrestricted, and single - store operators are able to purchase their goods at prices competitive with the larger chains. It's the emergence of this new source of countervailing power which the dissenting judges claim will help to maintain competition.

On the whole, much can be learned by reading the minority opinion of the Supreme Court about chain stores and their future. If the growth of chain stores is now going to be stunted, the Bureau of Labor Statistics will some day be issuing further statements telling how the poor are finding food more and more expensive to buy.

but like it...if you shop A&P

From now on all the clerks who serve you at A&P will be wearing bright red aprons and smocks. In other words, you'll be seeing red ... but you'll be happy about it, especially when you need help. There won't be any problem spotting a friendly clerk. Need help finding an item? Have a question you want answered?

Look for the clerks in red. They'll be glad to help. This is another vivid example of how A&P tries to make shopping easier for you . . . tries to prove A&P cares about you. So come to A&P. Where else can you see red and like it? Is this a good reason for shopping A&P? It's one of many.

The contract price is $975. Safety-Service Director Robert E. Vodrey pointed out the city has been troubled with falling and cracked plaster in both stairwells since the structure was erected in 1934.

The south stairwell has been closed during the repair and all traffic between floors of City Hall must use the east stairwell, which leads off Peach Alley. Police taking prisoners to Municipal Court this morning were forced to use a "detour" from the side entrance of headquarters to the doorway in Peach Alley - a distance of about 30 feet.

Vodrey said specifications now are being drawn up for installation of new roofing atop the City Hall and the offset which houses police headquarters and the jail.

When the new roofing has been installed on the City Hall proper, a contract will be let for repair of the plaster in the Municipal Court chamber, which has been damaged in recent years by seeping water.

Judge Samuel M. Chertoff has conducted hearings during heavy rain storms in which buckets were placed in the jury box and another spot on the west side of the chamber to catch water dripping through the ceiling. Repair of the roof last year virtually ended the water seepage problem, but the damaged plaster must be re-

2 Will Be Given Hearings Friday In Midland Case

Two Clarksburg (W.Va.) men face hearings on charges of burglary and larceny Friday at 11 a.m. before Justice of the Peace Paul McGeehan in Midland.

Guy L. Adams, 25, and Kenneth Snyder, 21, will appear at a hearing in the borough building in connection with the burglary of the New Riviera Bar on Midland Ave. June 2. Adams also will face a charge of "violating the uniform firearm act.

Adams was to have appeared before McGeehan Tuesday but the hearing was continued CENTER CUT to Friday to afford him time der was continued for the same reason.

McGeehan reported both men will be represented by courtappointed attorneys.

Both men are in Beaver County Jail at Beaver pending the hearings.

AMSTERDAM, the Netherlands (AP) Six hundred police reinforcements poured into Amsterdam today after the most serious riot in the Netherlands' largest city in 30 years. With some 1,100 policemen on duty, the city was calm again.

Police used tear gas for the first time in the city's history last night to disperse rioting construction workers protesting the death of a bricklayer in a demonstration on Monday

Car wrecking, store smashing and some looting was reported after young hooligans joined in the riot.

Police said 63 civilians and 28 policemen were injured and 30 persons were arreeted.

Viet Riots Bewilder Buddhists In Laos

HONOLULU (AP)-The U.S. ambassador to Laos said today Laotian Buddhists are perplexed by the Buddhist demonstrations in South Viet Nam.

William H. Sullivan said the Laotian Buddhists are "bewildered that the Buddhists in Viet Nam would get mixed up in politics.

Sullivan, traveling through Honolulu to begin home leave after 18 months in Vietiane, said, however, that the Buddhists in Laos are from a different sect than those in Viet Just Wonderful

Mrs. Gebauer said she was backing to allow another motorist to pull from a parking space when her car hit the Baker auto, which was halted in the rear. There was minor damage to the left front of the Baker car and the right rear of the Gebauer car, police said.

$3,242 Awarded To Legal Firm In Insurance Case

LISBON - A Common Pleas Court jury returned a $3,242.18 verdict Tuesday afternoon for a Lisbon legal firm which asked that amount from the Federal Mutual Insurance Co. of Decatur III

Attys. Richard D. Kennedy and John Orr Beck claimed the money was due them under a "mortgage clause" in a $5,000 insurance policy written in May 1964 for the late Jack E. Gbur of West Point.

He was buying the Ben Vocovich property in West Point on a land contract. One of the terms was that he take out $5,-000 fire and windstorm insurance and that the policy have a clause making any settlement payable to Kennedy and Beck. Fire destroyed the house March 15, 1965, and took the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Gbur and four children. Federal Mutual said it canceled the policy about July 13. 1964, because Mr. Gbur failed to pay any part of the $19 premium. The firm said it advised Kennedy and Beck. The lawvers said they received no notice from the company or its local representative, who turned the policy over to them in June

On the jury, sworn in Monday by Judge Joel H. Sharp. were Amber Stockman and Gladys Huffman, Lisbon; John Dillon, Salem; Lloyd Dougan, Beloit; Merwin Moore, Columbiana; Lois Oberholtzer, New Waterford; Ruth L. Smith, Florence Weese and Frank Copestick, East Liverpool; Ruth Fitzsimmons and Mary Defillipo, Wellsville, and Mildred Simpson, Salineville.

Although religion is the oldest continuing story in the history of mankind, it's still one of the biggest. Especially today. Sweeping changes are taking place in every region of the religious world, and they affect almost every member of our community.

To keep track of all these developments is a big job for an expert reporter, and fortunately, we have just the man for the job: George Cornell, religion writer for The Associated Press and author of the weekly column, "Religion Today."

In his 15 years of covering religion, Cornell has won the reputation of being among the most knowledgeable writers on the scene He's also won almost every important award, including a James O. Supple Memorial Award given to the outstanding religion writer of the year by all the other writers in the field.

As a member of The Associated Press, we count on George Cornell to get us the whole story. As a reader of this newspaper, you can count on us to get it to you - fully, factually, and above all, fairly.

Junior Editors Quiz on ARTISTS

QUESTION: Why do artists hold their arms out with the thumb up while painting?

* * * ANSWER: Not all artists do this. The artist in our picture is a portrait painter, interested in understanding the exact proportions of her model's head, so she can get a likeness. To help with this, she holds out her arm all the way, thumb up, with a brush or stick of charcoal held vertically. She is lining up the tip of the brush with the model's eye. And she has moved her thumb down so its tip lines up with her sitter's chin. Next, she will move her hand up until her thumbtip coincides with the model's eye. Then she will check to see where the tip of the brush is (it will probably line up with the top of the sitter's head). Now she can check whatever proportions she has found with her picture to be sure it is correct. She will check other relationships in the same way, such as position of mouth between bottom of nose and chin, and width of head in relation to height of head. All this will be of great value in getting a true likeness. Although of particular value in figure painting, the same method is often used by artists who paint from still life and landscape.

* * * FOR YOU TO DO: Have a friend sit quietly facing you. Now draw an egg to represent his or her head. Hold up your pencil and check to see if the model's eye is halfway between the top and bottom of egg. Draw the proportion you have found and finish your portrait.

Joan Mucksavage of Elizabeth, N. J., wins today's combined prize of Compton's Illustrated Science Dictionary plus $10 eash for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review.
